

Docman 10 is the next generation in clinical content management and workflow

Supporting time-pressured healthcare professionals

Docman 10 provides complete access to documents and data from anywhere at anytime, supporting new care models and ways of working, accessed through a web browser.

Receive and send information in an instant. Automation and simplicity is at the heart of the Docman 10 electronic workflow and the transfer of care process. Have information, history, documents and data at your fingertips. Do the things you do every day more easily and from anywhere, anytime with a secure N3 connection.

The Docman platform is actively managing 3,000,000 documents every single week. We have spent hundreds of hours observing user behaviour to study every part of the process and we are focusing on improving and enhancing every stage.

Supporting new ways of working

Review, information stamp, redact, highlight, annotate, action and workflow transfer of care documents and messages.

A browser based Docman 10 means no reliance on locally installed software and hardware and is accessible with mobile and tablet devices.

Fully supportive of federated working with a live user presence to support discussions and collaborations around patients.

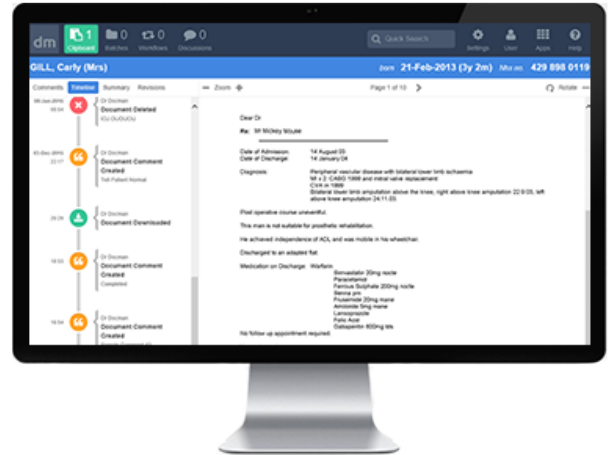

Quickly consume and process Clinical Document Architecture (CDA) messages.

Docman 10 has been designed with the user in mind.

Docman 10 has been designed and developed around how our users want to manage their documents and the transfer of care process.

By visiting our customers across Primary and Secondary Care, we have gained an accurate and true understanding of the challenges they face and how we can make their job roles easier and more efficient.

A new enhanced user interface means Docman 10 can provide even greater productivity from fewer clicks. The user interface has been designed based on best practice to deliver an intuitive user experience.
